A prophet is despised only in his own country.

I came across this excellent reflection on today's Gospel from Croydon Park Parish in Australia. It has some food for thought for all of us. www.croydonparkparish.com.au

Jesus was back in his home town and teaching in the synagogue. The people were very surprised when they heard him speaking. They couldn't understand how Jesus, who they had known since he was a little boy, could have so much wisdom and teach so well. Why do you think the people were so surprised? They thought that they knew who Jesus was – the son of Mary and of Joseph the carpenter. They thought Jesus was just an ordinary man, but he wasn't. Who do we know Jesus to be? Jesus is the Son of God. But the people he had grown up with could not accept that Jesus was special. They did not believe in him. Sometimes when we know someone really well we can forget how special they are. It can be hard to see past all the things we know about them, to what they are really like. And sometimes we forget how special the things that we do are, because they just feel ordinary to us. The people listening to Jesus in today's reading judge him because of who he is and where he comes from. They are not willing to listen to him or to change their minds, even though he shows wisdom in his teaching. Have you ever made your mind up about someone just because of where they came from? Or has it happened to you – that people have judged you because of who your family are or where you come from?
